AMERICAN FLYER FINDS ONE HEINIE WHO IS A SPORT

With the American Armies in France, July 10.—(By Mail).—"There's a certain German airman I'd like to meet after the war, if he lives and I do," said Lieut. Eddie Rickenbacker, American Ace and former auto racer.

"If we meet in the states, I'll buy him an ice cream soda, and if its in Germany I'll expect him to buy us both beers. He flies No. 16 in a certain German squadron. His machine is an observing and fighting type combined. For a German, he is an exceptional sport. We had four days successive rendezvous together without result and it was real fighting all the time.

"The first morning I hopped into the can and went up to a pink tea, looking for anything in general and nothing in particular. I soon spotted No. 16 and he spotted me. We jockeyed for position, both of us trying to get the blind spot in front of the sun.

"Finally I got under his tail after half an hour of maneuvering his way and that and let him have it. The gun fired two shots and jammed. There was nothing to do but zoom off home, which I did.

"Next morning I went up at the same hour over the same spot. I saw No. 16 with two German fighting planes. He was higher than me, but I was higher than they, so I jockeyed for position. Again the gun jammed, and I fell into a vrille to get out of his range.

"When I zoomed away, I got the gun working again and again jockeyed for position with Heinie, whose two fighters had been driven off by other Americans by now. He began shooting out of his belly at me and I zig zagged to dodge his bullets, which were whizzing by me.

"Then we began playing around and kept it up for three quarters of an hour, each trying to get a bead on the other. Finally I got in the blind spot, and started down on him. Again my gun jammed and of course he had the edge on me.

"Instead of running, which would have been more dangerous, since he had the altitude after I dived past him, I again jockeyed for position, though I knew my gun wouldn't shoot. I wanted to fox him and make him think I was still in the fight.

"It worked for after a few minutes more of maneuvering, he decided it was enough for a day, since neither of us could get position. So he fired two shots wild as a good bye, waved his hand and went home. It was a good thing for me, for my motor went out a minute later and I struggled home on a glide, barely making it over the lines.

"The boys had seen me come down and my mechanics were beginning to figure their Mekimo wasn't coming back when I finally got in, traveling most of the way on an ambulance.

"Next morning I had to borrow a plane, since mine was not repaired yet. I went out looking for Heinie No. 16. I was there, at the given spot, but very, very high. I maneuvered for all I was worth, but couldn't make my plane reach him. It was out of the question for I had one with two guns and the weight kept it down.

"Heinie had an exceptionally good plane, and I saw him directly above me several times. But he didn't shoot—that is with his gun. I saw him take a picture of me with his camera and finally he went off while I tried to get position close enough to shoot.

"Next morning I again borrowed a machine and went after him, with two guns. He was there, taking pictures. We began maneuvering for position and finally I got it and let him have it. Then one gun jammed. Before I could get a bead on him with the other, he was letting me have it. I vrilled and came back at him still higher.

"Finally both our guns jammed and both of us knew the other couldn't shoot though we tried to repair our guns. But no luck. So we wobbled each other good bye with our flappers and both departed. Next day I was sent away for a few days and the boys said Heinie No. 16 wasn't there either. Some day we'll settle it, and a lot of bets that were placed on us by the mechanics."

GO EAST TO SEE RELATIVES IN ARMY

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Esterline started Saturday afternoon for Newport News, Va., where they hope to see the former's brother, Victor Esterline, of Yellow Springs, and Mrs. Esterline's cousin, Joseph Foody of this city, who are at the port. The young men came up recently from Camp Beauregard, La., with troops that are preparing to embark. They are in Company G, 154th Infantry. After seeing their relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Esterline expect to go to Washington, New York and Philadelphia.

CHANGES IN DRAFT RULES ARE FAVORED

Washington, August 10.—Plans for radical changes to liberalize the draft regulations are being worked out at the war department, Secretary Baker said yesterday, after his appearance before the senate military committee to urge prompt enactment of the new draft bill extending the ages to include men between 18 and 45 years.

Mr. Baker thought it possible that the whole method of fixing deferred classification would be changed so as to relieve registrants of the duty of claiming or refusing to claim exemption.

The war secretary made it plain that he is not satisfied with the present system under which the registrant must claim deferred classification, as many men with dependents hesitate for patriotic reasons to make such a claim.

What Mr. Baker has in mind is to lay down a set of questions which the registrant would answer and then have rules which would take care of the classification.

REFERENDUM PETITIONS ARE FILED

Two petitions, one requesting a referendum on the ordinance recently passed by the city commission against sidewalk displays and the other against the ordinance doing away with permanent awnings, was filed with City Auditor Roy C. Hayward Saturday morning.

The petitions were each signed by 624 voters, or about 60 per cent of the number of voters at the election for or against the commission form of government. At that time the vote was 1,004, only 15 per cent of which number was required to make the petitions submitted legitimate.

The petitions have been in circulation for several weeks, and contain on the list of signers the names of many prominent business men. The petitions name Henry Fetz, G. A. Willet, Harry Sohn, L. D. Wilson and Rufus Mullen as the committee to act as spokesmen of the petitioners.

The petitions will be presented to the city commission at the next meeting and the body will then have twenty days to decide whether to repeal the ordinance or let the matter go before the people at the regular election in November.

In case the latter decision is made, which it is practically certain will be, the question will be put on the ballots by a written request from the committee of the signers, and will be presented to the people at the regular election, November 5.

R. conducted their ritual at the grave, the deceased having fought through the Civil War and was a member of the local post.

CHAS. WEBER FAILS TO PASS EXAMINATION

Charles E. Weber, of this city, who is at Camp Beauregard, failed to pass the overseas examination on account of the condition of one of his feet, due to a broken ankle which he received a number of years ago. In letters to local friends Mr. Weber said that he felt very badly when his comrades left Camp Beauregard without him. He will probably be retained in the service, but does not know to what branch he will be assigned.

U. S. SOLDIERS HELP DEDICATE FRENCH BRIDGE TO WILSON

American troops marching at Lyons, France. American soldiers helped dedicate to President Wilson the bridge over the Rhone river at Lyons, France, on Bastille day. William Sharp, American ambassador to France, other high officials and the entire populace of the town witnessed the ceremony. American soldiers took part.

AMERICAN SOLDIERS ALMOST WORSHIPPED BY FRENCH PEOPLE

By Frank J. Taylor.
With the American Armies in France, Aug. 10.—(1:40 a. m.)—American troops continue their incessant pounding at the German center north of the Vesle river.

Although our wings on each side of Fismes are comparatively quiet, as regards infantry fighting, the Americans are slowly advancing up the ravines running northward from the Vesle, toward the plateau and heights where the Germans are strongly entrenched.

The little town of Fismette, about a mile north of Fismes had been captured, greatly improving our bridgehead on the north bank of the Vesle.

Our artillery is blasting away at the boches defenses all along the line. But the firing is particularly heavy just north of Fismes, where the gunners are seeking to open up a way for the infantry.

The German artillery fire is lessening noticeably. Its batteries mostly are created by heavy caliber pieces, according to prisoners.

This indicates that the enemy is withdrawing its artillery far northward and removing material, possibly in preparation for a retirement across the Aisne. Captured officers frankly admit the aim of the Germans is now to hold off the allies until they are ready to fall back again. They say they are hard pressed for fresh divisions to withstand the allied pushes.

The German crown prince already has used a third of the Germans entire west front strength, in attempting to repulse the Marne drive.

The American attack yesterday was made after deadly artillery preparation, the doughboys then rushing the village (of Fismette) and catching the boches before they could get away. In hand to hand street fighting, practically all the Prussia troops who opposed them were either killed or captured.

In the rear areas the Americans are assisting refugees to re-establish themselves in villages recently captured. American trucks northward usually carry women and children on tops of the piles of ammunition and supplies.

The Americans are winning the hearts of the refugees by helping to clean out the ruins. I saw a middle-aged woman return to a battered wreck of a village, leading a cow and carrying a huge basket of her belongings on her back. A little boy and girl were trudging by her side. In the midst of the wreckage they found their "home." The mother sat down on an ammunition box, the tears rolling down her cheeks.

A big American sergeant came by, stopped, and tried to comfort the woman. Although she understood no English and he knew no French, they understood each other. The sergeant called two of his buddies and they began clearing out the cellar. Considerable room was soon resurrected. Food was brought from a field kitchen. The gratitude of the French woman could not be measured. It almost reached worship of the American soldiers. And this is only one of the many scenes which occur every day in any repatriated village behind the American lines.

ALLIED AVIATORS STRAFE THE GERMANS

With the French Armies in the Field, Aug. 10, 1:45 a. m.—Allied aviators are continually bombing the important railway centers of Roye and Nesle. Many explosions and fires have been observed in these cities.

Roye is ten miles northwest of Montdidier. Nesle is seven miles north-west of Roye and six miles southeast of Chaumes.

French troops have extended their front slightly southward, capturing Contoire and St. Hubert wood.

The German commander is known to be considering into the fight the class of 1920 within the next few weeks,—months ahead of time. Prisoners declare there is strong opposition in Germany to sacrificing these boys, two years and a half before their time, notwithstanding the desperate need for 400,000 reinforcements, which this class will provide. Since the losses incurred on the Marne and the Somme, calls have been made for more replacements than can be filled from recuperating wounded.

ROOSEVELT IN ROME.

Rome, August 10.—Franklin D. Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the American navy, arrived here late yesterday, and was received by Admiral Delbono, Minister of Marine.

ALL OBJECTIVES ARE REACHED BY ALLIED FIGHTERS

The Americans are fighting in Picardy. Co-operating with the British they captured Morlancourt and the Heights of the southeast—probably the most difficult feat accomplished so far in this offensive.

The British communique did not state whether the Americans are operating as separate units or are brigaded with the British. The latter is more probable, as they fought as part of the Australian brigades in the capture of Villers-Bretonneux on July 4.

Morlancourt, which is four miles south of Albert, between the Ancre and the Somme formed the northern flank of the allied drive. The town was reported captured early in the attack, but later evidently were driven out.

French troops are pinching off Montdidier. That famous city is practically surrounded.

London, Aug. 10.—American troops are participating in the Picardy drive the British war office announced today.

Co-operating with the British, they took all their objectives, including Morlancourt, where the Germans had made their stiffest resistance and held up the left wing of the allied drive.

"Yesterday afternoon and evening the allied advance continued on the whole front from southward of Montdidier to the Anore," the statement said. "South of Montdidier, the French attacked in the afternoon, capturing Le Tronquoy, Le Fretoy and Assainvillers and threatening Montdidier from the southeast.

"The Canadians and Australians took Bouchere, and Lihons, entering Raincourt and Proyart.

"By nightfall, Anglo-Americans took all their objectives, including the Village of Morlancourt and the high ground to the southeast.

"Enemy counter-attacks were beaten off in sharp fighting.

"Since the eighth, more than 24,000 prisoners have been taken."

Paris, August 10.—(12:10 p. m.)—Suddenly attacking south of Montdidier, French troops have practically surrounded the city, the French official communique indicated today.

The new attack was made on the three mile front between Ayencourt and Le Fretoy, the French penetrating four miles northeastward to Favorelles, three miles directly east of Montdidier.

In the thrust the villages of Rubescourt and Assainvillers were captured. Fighting throughout yesterday evening and last night, the French also continued their pressure southward toward Montdidier, advancing more than a mile and taking Davenscourt, four miles north of the city.

"French troops, operating on the right of the British continued their progress yesterday evening and last night," the communique said. "We progressed eastward to Arvillers and took Davenscourt.

"Attacking south of Montdidier, between Ayencourt and Le Fretoy, the French took Rubenscourt and Assainvillers and reached Favorelles."

London, Aug. 10.—Unceasing co-operation with British attacking forces in France during the offensive operations there was reported today in the official British air ministry communique. All sorts of work was done by flying squadrons. Advancing cavalry was aided by low-flying machines which dropped smoke bombs to conceal the progress of the troops, advanced infantry units were supplied with ammunition by the messengers.

He has been granted a year's leave of absence by the local school board.

MAY RECALL OFFICERS.

Columbus, August 10.—Officers of the Ohio National Guard who were honorably discharged from the service for physical disability, or other reasons, may be commissioned as the war progresses and their services are needed.

It is learned here that the war department has a complete list of these officers and may call upon them for service later in the training camps or other service if not in the field. The list includes, of course, Brigadier Generals John C. Speaks and William U. McMaken both of whom were retired shortly before the Thirty Seventh Division went overseas.

Save the Babies

INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twenty-two per cent., or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirty-seven per cent., or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save many of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupefy, retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. There can be no danger in the use of Castoria if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher as it contains no opiates or narcotics of any kind.

Letters from Prominent Physicians addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Dr. A. F. Peeler, of St. Louis, Mo., says: "I have prescribed your Castoria in many cases and have always found it an efficient and speedy remedy."
Dr. Frederick D. Rogers, of Chicago, Ill., says: "I have found Fletcher's Castoria very useful in the treatment of children's complaints."
Dr. William C. Bloomer, of Cleveland, Ohio, says: "In my practice I am glad to recommend your Castoria, knowing it is perfectly harmless and always satisfactory."
Dr. B. Down, of Philadelphia, Pa., says: "I have prescribed your Castoria in my practice for many years with great satisfaction to myself and benefit to my patients."
Dr. Gustave A. Elsengrauber, of St. Paul, Minn., says: "I have used your Castoria repeatedly in my practice with good results, and can recommend it as an excellent, mild and harmless remedy for children."
Dr. J. D. Elliott, of New York City, says: "Having during the past six years prescribed your Castoria for infantile stomach disorders, I most heartily commend its use. The formula contains nothing deleterious to the most delicate of children."
Dr. C. G. Sprague, of Omaha, Neb., says: "Your Castoria is an ideal medicine for children, and I frequently prescribe it. While I do not advocate the indiscriminate use of proprietary medicines, yet Castoria is an exception for conditions which arise in the care of children."
Dr. J. A. Parker, of Kansas City, Mo., says: "Your Castoria holds the esteem of the medical profession in a manner held by no other proprietary preparation. It is a sure and reliable medicine for infants and children. In fact, it is the universal household remedy for infantile ailments."
Dr. H. F. Merrill, of Augusta, Me., says: "Castoria is one of the very finest and most remarkable remedies for infants and children. In my opinion your Castoria has saved thousands from an early grave. I can furnish hundreds of testimonials from this locality as to its efficiency and merits."

GREENE COUNTY MAKES GOOD RECORD IN SALE OF STAMPS

Columbus, Ohio, August 10—Among those Ohio counties which increased the per capita sale of War Savings Stamps more than $1.15 in the three-week period from July 11th to August 1st, inclusive, Greene county made a satisfactory record. The normal per capita cash sale of War Savings Stamps should have increased in each county at the rate of 38.5 cents each week.

In those counties where the average sale of War Savings Stamps from week to week has not been maintained, the weekly quota for the balance of the year has naturally been increased over the allotment given out the first of the year.

Only July 11th, the sale of War Savings Stamps in Ohio should have averaged $10.77 for every person. By August 1st this had increased to $11.92. On the former date, the per capita sale in this county was $5.48. It stood at $9.10 on August 1st.

According to the reports submitted to the State Committee here by M. J. Hartley, War Savings Chairman for Greene county, the total cash sale of War Savings on August 1st in this county was $271,173.

The 1918 quota for the War Savings Stamps for this county has been fixed by the United States Treasury Department at $594,660.

SERGEANT COLLINS TO TAKE SPECIAL TRAINING

Sergeant John W. Collins, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Collins of Cedarville, and a member of Co. F, 330th Inf., 83rd Division, now in France, has been assigned to special intensive training, according to word received by his parents.

Sergeant Collins has accompanied Captain Edmunds and Lieutenant Basquim, of Company F, to the intensive training school, where he will be given a six weeks' course.

The school is a considerable distance from where the regiment is camped, as it took three days to get there. The three soldiers stopped off in Paris on their way and spent some time going over the city.

REMEMBER--IT'S NOT WHAT YOU EAT THAT DOES YOU GOOD,--IT'S WHAT YOU DIGEST.

HIGH COST OF LIVING SOLVED BY USING PEPSINCO, A SYSTEMATIC METHOD OF DIGESTION.

Thousands of tons of food are wasted thru improper digestion of food. Many persons are using a new system of food digestion, not only because our government's food expert says that we shall conserve the food, but, also, the high price of food stuffs compels retrenchment. They find that a little food well digested, will go farther and do more good than a large quantity poorly digested.

Pepsinco, this systematic method of digestion, is inexpensive and can always be relied upon. The dose is small and powerful. One little tablet will digest an ordinary meal. Everything will be assimilated. The meal will give you strength. Your entire system will undergo a change for the better. No food will be wasted, once you start this treatment.

Stop at the drug store today and get a small package of Pepsinco, the perfect digestant and make every grain of food do its duty.

A large FREE TRIAL package of Pepsinco, to everyone who has never used it.

Mr. H. says:—I have been a sufferer from indigestion for some time; used many remedies; tried several doctors with no relief. Commenced using Pepsinco about a year ago, and have had only one or two slight attacks since.

You send to-day for a trial, its FREE. The Neuro Pharmacal Company, Wapakoneta, O.

SUGAR CARDS GO INTO THE DISCARD

Columbus, O., Aug. 10—All sugar ration cards issued to families by local food administration committees have been assigned to the discard by the state food administration. Hereafter there must be no cards issued bearing the indorsement of the federal food administration of a local food administration committee. Such cards already issued must be withdrawn and cancelled. Letters advising local food committees of this ruling already have gone out from the state food administration headquarters.

The sugar ration of two pounds per month still is to hold good as a voluntary rationing. There is nothing to prevent the retailer or associations of retailers from issuing cards for their own protection. Retailers will continue to be limited in the amount of sugar allotted to them, so in order to make their supply run during the month it is expected most of them will resort to some sort of system to curtail purchases. Otherwise they may find their allotment disposed of long before they are entitled to another assignment. The card system by retailers is encouraged by the state food administration.

In announcing this change in plans the food administration says the expense incident to conducting a rationing system by the card method under the direction of the federal food administration would cost the government $5,000,000 and require the service of 100,000 people.

Everyday Etiquette

"When one receives the announcement of people who are not intimate friends, does she have to send a gift?" asked Cora.

"It is not necessary for you to send a gift to a bride upon the receipt of an announcement card. You should send your card to the bride or bridegroom or both," answered her mother.

ADVERTISING---

Who Pays the Bill

Number FIVE

A series of fifty-two articles written by experts on advertising for your benefit. They will appear in The Morning Republican and The Evening Gazette. Read them and learn how advertising helps you.

There is a feeling still on the part of some people that advertising causes a higher cost of merchandise to the customer. Such is not the case. In fact just the opposite is true. Advertising enables manufacturers to produce their commodities in larger volume, thus reducing the price to the consumer. Positive proof that advertising DOES lower the price to the consumer may be found in a study of the price tendencies of the commodities produced by America's largest manufacturers who are also large advertisers.

You hear of the millions of dollars which are spent annually for advertising by the manufacturers of the country. Your conception is that this great expenditure is indirectly paid by the consumer. You cannot see the contractions at the other end of the manufacturing business for which advertising is responsible. As a matter of simple illustration, I believe the following will best make this clear.

You are a shoemaker. You must have $4 every day to meet all of your needs—to purchase your food, your clothing, your coal, pay rent and take care of the other necessities. Four dollars, we will say, will exactly do it, but you have nothing left.

The shoes you make cost you four dollars a pair to produce. You are selling one pair of these shoes a day. You must have $4 a day to live, which amount you add to the cost of making the shoes, bringing the selling price to $8.

You decide to write some letters to a number of people every day telling them they can buy good shoes from you. You send out fifty letters a day at a cost of $1.50. As a result of these letters, which is your method of advertising, you sell two pairs of your shoes a day, or $16 worth, with a profit of eight dollars, less your advertising cost (the letters) of $1.50, leaving a net profit of $2.50 after you take the $4.00 you require each day. You then increase the number of your letters until you are spending $10 a day for this kind of advertising. You are now able to sell eight pairs of shoes every day, which is all you can make in your shop.

Your operating cost is now $14 a day on the scale of eight pairs of shoes or $1.75 a pair, which must be added to the material cost of the shoes of $4 thus making each pair cost you $5.75 to make and sell. You need some profit, however, for surplus, which you decide shall be $1.25 on each pair. By selling eight pairs a day instead of one as you originally did you are able to reduce the selling price to $7.00 a pair after paying all overhead expense, put $1.25 on each sale in the bank. Time goes on. You spend more for your advertising. People learn your shoes are just as good as ever but now sell for $7.00 instead of $8.00. Your customers increase. You hire an assistant, buy your materials in larger quantities, save money by paying cash and are making more profit at decreased cost to the customer.

In just this way, many of our larger nationally known manufacturers have built up their volume and are satisfied with a profit as low as 1 and 2 per cent on their enormous production.

I have asked about fifty advertisers the effect of advertising on the cost to the consumer. These concerns spend close to $4,000,000, a year for advertising and you can rest assured they know what they are talking about when they state that advertising DOES NOT INCREASE THE PRICE TO THE CONSUMER, but DECREASES IT.

The amount of the country's business is estimated in normal times between $40,000,000,000 and $50,000,000,000 annually; $350,000,000 to $400,000,000 is spent for advertising each year so if these figures are correct, and I believe they are approximately so, the total advertising cost is but one per cent of the total business.

The price which is paid for advertising is not added to the price which the customers must pay. Advertising increases distribution, creates new markets, decreases manufacturing costs and enables manufacturers to reduce their prices to a level which could not have been obtained without advertising.

A manufacturer of spark plugs told me he has reduced his selling cost, through advertising, 70 per cent in four years and here is proof in his reduction of price. In 1905 his spark plugs sold for from $1.50 to $2.50, with a continual decrease until the price for 1917 was 75 cents to $1.25, and this in face of high raw material costs.

A well known motor car company credits advertising for a consistently reduced price. It spends only one per cent of its sales receipts for advertising but see how the prices have fallen. In 1905 its car sold for $1,250. In 1915 the price had fallen to $1,050 and in 1917 the low price of $875 was reached. I could give you many such instances, but they all tell the same story—a story of volume built by advertising which decreased the price to the consumer.

There can be no question as to the benefits the consumer derives from advertising. Only theorists who know nothing of manufacturing—nothing about what the wonderful leverage of volume does toward price reduction prate about advertising increasing the cost to the consumer.

Emphatically Asserts Worn Out, Lagging Men Can Quickly Become Vigorous and Full of Ambition

7 A DAY FOR 7 DAYS

Don't blame the man who is perpetually tired; his blood needs more red corpuscles and his brain and nerves are craving for food. Given the right kind of medicine, say tired-out, inactive, lagging fellows can quickly be made into a real live, energetic and even ambitious man. So says a student of the nervous system who advises all men and women who feel worn out and who find it hard to get up ambition enough to take a regular job to get a package of Bio-feren at any druggist. This is the new discovery that pharmacists are recommending because it is not expensive and speedily puts vigor and ambition into people who despair of ever amounting to anything in life. People whose nerves have been wrecked by too rapid living, too much tobacco or alcohol, have regained their old-time confidence and energy in less than two weeks. No matter from what cause your nerves went back on you; no matter how run down, nervous or tired out you are, get an original package of Bio-feren at once. Take two tablets after each meal and one before bedtime—seven a day for seven days—then one after each meal till all are gone. Then if you still lack ambition; if your nerves are not steady and you haven't the energy that red-blooded, keen-minded men possess, your purchase money will be gladly returned. Note to Physicians: There is no secret about the formula of Bio-feren. It is printed on every package. Here it is: Lecithin; Calcium Glycero-phosphate; Iron Peptonate; Manganese Peptonate; Eri. Nux Vomica; Powdered Gentian; Phenolphthalein; Oleoresin Capsicum; Kola.

BLESSED ARE THE DEAD WHO DIE NOT IN VAIN.

The tragic tide, red-edged and bearing its dreadful burdens, is rising. The sudden enlargement of the list of casualties, coming on in a towering wave, has broken upon our coasts. The price we paid—willingly paid—for stopping the stunning German blow at Paris, and crumpling back, crippled, the vicious arm that struck it, is just beginning to be levied upon the hearts of our people at home. The bereaved mothers of America are hearing the numbing news from the Marne.

It was inevitable. We have known it from the first. Great modern battles are not won without heavy losses. But this does not change the fact that when a grim messenger knocks at the door of an American home, and with a word freezes apprehension into certainty, that home lies under the shadow of death as truly as if the boy lay dead, upstairs, in his old familiar chamber. The mother does not suffer the less because the uncaring sea keeps her from the coffin of her beloved.

The casualty lists are no respecters of persons. The deadly bulletins penetrate the heavy portals that guard the spacious residences of the rich with the same swift, silent stroke of fate with which they pierce the less pretentious homes of the poor. In both cases the heart that is struck is human. Death is the great leveler. Wealth has no comfort to whisper when the shaft strikes home.

Even at the bedside of the wounded, wealth can do nothing. In times of peace it can summon to the succor of its favorites all the resources of science and medical skill. But over in France every soldier is the son of Uncle Sam—and this nation is playing no favorites among its children. Whatever science can achieve—whatever the national revenues can buy and carry to the hospital cot—is just as much at the disposal of the friendless son of the poor widow, as of the favored son of the multi-millionaire.

But the magnificent thing about it all is, how heroically, how sublimely, with what superb patriotism, our whole people, totally unaccustomed to even the thought of war, are enduring the trial. Listen as closely as you like, and you will hear no sound of whimpering anywhere. The courage and self-sacrificing spirit of the nation rise, as this final challenge of the kaiser to our pluck as a people grows louder and louder, through the roll of the most dreadful drum that war has ever evolved—the drumfire of masked artillery.

We will mourn our splendid dead with hearts that weep blood, but we will avenge them with hearts steelled by every wanton German atrocity, by every hospital ship sunk, by every Red Cross post bombed, by every wounded prisoner tortured, by every remembrance that this whole horrible tragedy was forced upon the world by a devilish despotism that sought to enslave the human race.

There is not an American boy dead in France, but the mad ambition of Berlin killed him. There is not a lad from your street, stretched, suffering on a hospital cot, but the cynical war lords of Germany, seated in luxurious chairs about a green baize table in the German Foreign office, tore, maimed and mutilated him. We suffer with him. Every thrill of pain is magnified and multiplied as it wracks the tortured fancy of his mother. But as truly as the God of Justice still liveth, the men who planned this carnage, and loosed this carnival of cruelty upon us, will pay for every American grave and every crippled lad whom they send back to us.

WHAT WE ARE GOING TO DO IN SIBERIA.

The gravity of the situation in Russia, where it appears that Lenin and Trotsky, with the help of Germany, are about to declare a Bolshevik war against Japan, has caused the War Department to speed its plans for joining the Japanese in the expedition to Siberia.

Major General William S. Graves, one of the finest types of the regular army fighting man, has been selected to command the American forces, and two regiments of regulars from the Philippines have been ordered forthwith to Vladivostok, where they will be joined shortly by forces from the United States.

When Allied action in Siberia finally was determined upon it was assumed the first American forces to go would be dispatched from the Philippines. The question arose as to whether troops serving in the tropics for a long period could stand the rigors of a winter campaign in Russia, and it was suggested properly equipped regiments could be sent only from this country. The urgency of the situation which has arisen during the last forty-eight hours, however, solved the problem. Troops from the Philippines can reach Vladivostok within a very few days, and it is safe to predict that they already are on their way. They will be equipped for the winter after their arrival.

No word of General Graves' movements will be given out until he reaches Vladivostok. The troops which follow him to Russia from this country undoubtedly will be drawn from one of the new divisions being organized on the Pacific coast. They may come from his own division, the eighth, which he was organizing at Camp Fremont, Palao Alto, Calif., when he was assigned to the Russian expedition.

Just how many American troops will be dispatched to Russia during the next few weeks or months, General Peyton C. March, chief of Staff of the army would not say. The total of American-Japanese force, it is said will be in the neighborhood of 20,000 men or approximately two European divisions.

TRUCK LOADED WITH CHICKENS HAS COLLISION

A truck driven by Alva Jeffries, and loaded with chicken exhibits with a man sitting on top of the coops, collided with a post while making a turn in the fairgrounds Friday afternoon.

Jeffries was thrown off, and received a scalp wound. Chicken coops were scattered in all directions, and the man on top of the coops jumped in time to save himself injury. The poultry raised a big commotion, in the midst of which and the angry words of the two men, the coops were loaded back onto the truck and Jeffries with his shirt covered with blood from his wound, drove the machine back to Xenia. The cut in his head is not serious.

Prisrend makes remarkably modest demands on orthography for a Balkan town, being spell in only six different ways. It has no need for a water board, because the river Blitza, called the Maritza by casual geographers, cuts the town in two, while in almost all the streets there are brooks that become torrents after heavy rains. The Prisrendian "nuts" are the most gaudily dressed people in the Balkans, and the local bazars blaze with garish garments, beside which the rainbow-hued neckties inflicted on innocent Englishmen at Christmas, would look drab.—London Chronicle.

GREENE COUNTY FAIR COMES TO CLOSE FRIDAY

Because he had staying power, Stearon, by gelding, with Johnson up, outpaced John Alstrath and Barney O'Connor Jr., and took the last three heats of the 2:15 pace at the county fair, Friday afternoon, after that event was forced into six heats.

The race was the only six heat event in three days' racing, however, during which time there was offered an interesting racing program.

Although not so large as Thursday, the crowd was just as enthusiastic, and a great deal of interest was manifested in the program of the final day's racing of the big annual fair.

The fair this year was most successful, considering the circumstances, and good crowds attended all four days, especially the three days of racing.

Despite the fact that Rex Wilkes, with Johnson up, won the first event, the 2:20 trot in straight heats, there was considerable contest for the position, especially in the third heat, when the gelding was forced to step the mile in 2:47 1-4.

The second race, the 2:15 pace, was the split heat event which went six heats. John Alstrath gave promise of winning the race in the first two heats when he finished first both times with Stearon registering in second place. By pushing his trotter hard in the third heat, Urban won the third heat, with Alstrath second and Stearon fourth. The pace was too hard for the Urban horse, however, and although he tried hard in the next two heats, he was out paced by Stearon. With two heats apiece, John Alstrath and Stearon went into the final heat, but the reserve energy of the former was used up in the spurt in front of the stands on the first time around and Stearon won easily.

Mr. Johnson, up behind Stearon, drove him in place of Ed Abrams, driver and owner of Toledo, who received word that his wife was dying, and was called home.

Eleven starters faced the judge in the 2:30 trot, the third event. There was nothing to it except Profit Wreath, however, who started in his first race and led the way through the three straight heats. Brimbee was trailed by Wilton Worthy, Hade up, through all three heats, the latter winning second money.

Starter C. M. Leonard, who was kind enough to offer his assistance as starter at the last minute, got the wrigglers away very favorably Friday and he had little trouble in any event.

THEATERS

Bijou.

Wallace Reid, popular screen idol, and pretty Kathlyn Williams, who has not been seen here for some time are featured in the Paramount production, "The Things We Love," which comes to the Bijou theater, Monday night only.

This picture, directed by Lou Tellegen, sounds a powerful patriotic note of a stirring nature. Wallace Reid has a powerful part in the production and the finely drawn patriotic lines to the play, make it a tale that will touch intimately every single human being in the audience.

Orphium.

Belle Bennett, popular Trinagle starrs, has the leading role in the production, "The Lonely Woman," which comes to the Orphium Monday night.

This pretty little star has accomplished a bit of wonderful emotional acting in this picture, which is really one of her best offerings under Tri angle guidance. She is supported by Lee Hill, Percy Challenger, Anna Dodge, Blanche Gray and others.

Buffon Had Wrong Idea.

It was Buffon's idea that all the forms of animal and plant life came from the two continents were introduced here after the discovery by Europeans. The idea was naturally suggested by the rapidity with which this continent was peopled and stocked with domestic animals and cultivated plants. The teaching from Buffon's day until twenty or twenty-five years ago was to the same effect. Since then, however, the evidence has been found to prove this view to be not only false, but directly the reverse of what has been the real order of succession.

WATCHING "FROM A HIGH TOWER"—THE MAGNIFICENT SPECTACLE

LESSONS IN AMERICAN HOSPITALITY

BY CLARENCE BUDINGTON KELLAND

Paris, August 10.—Thirty sailors off an American war vessel hired a motor truck and drove nine miles to get to the Y. M. C. A. Club in a famous French city. I asked them why.

"Because it is a regular hangout" one of them said, and another added, "because you get white bread with butter on it, and eggs fried on both sides and coffee with a piano accompaniment."

As soon as I broke into the place I found why men would ride nine miles on a truck to loaf there from eight until eleven.

It wasn't the sort of place folks in the United States imagine a Y. M. C. A. to be. It was a sweltering hot night, and the broad front steps were lined from end to end with men in khaki and men in navy blue. They were gassing and smoking until the place looked as if the captain had ordered a smoke screen to help him through the submarine zone.

From the street you could hear a piano doing business and a lot more men in uniform howling "Joan of Arc." It was a howl, but it was the sort of a howl a man fresh from the United States was mighty glad to hear tearing out of men who had been over here for months on the job. If the mothers of these boys could have heard that racket their hearts would have dropped off a pound of weight and increased their beat by ten to the second. They sang as if they were dead to be alive, and when I got inside and saw the fat boy who was abusing his piano fairly bumping up and down on the stool with the swing of the music, I wished the picture could be shown in every movie house in America. It would have been a great entertainment poster.

And then somebody busted up the game. A sailorman came in and made the announcement that the driver of his truck refused to take them back to quarters again and it was a walk of nine miles on a hot night or a stretch in the brig for them. Gloom descended. Thirty sailors knotted together and gloomed all over the place, in English and Profane. Then somebody turned and bellowed, "Where's one of them 'Y' guys?"

A "Y" guy happened to be on the spot and in a second he was surrounded by a crowd of men who were angry or in a mood to demand something, but by fellows who were mighty courteous in an unpleasant situation. That was something worth remarking, and it made you sort of glad to be around. They were nice boys. There is a fact that may surprise a lot of folks who do their thinking without a backing of data, but our boys in France seemed to have learned the trick of courtesy as they never had it at home when they were pushing a plow or selling cigars or counting silver in a bank. Something has done it. It sticks out! Courtesy! It may be the discipline of the service.

They put the thing up to the "Y" guy and one fellow said sort of bashful like, "We don't want to act like we was puttin' this up to you. Taint your fault, but—"

It was apparent they had gotten the idea somehow that you could depend on a "Y" guy to get a move on him, and the "Y" guy allowed as much.

"Sure, its up to us," he said, "that's why we're here."

Apparently it was why that man was there, for he ducked out as if he were sent for by J. P. Morgan and in side of twenty minutes was back with a big truck with a red triangle on the side of it. He tucked the thirty sailormen into it and off they went to keep their appointment with their boss.

That, quite likely, is one of the reasons why they rode nine miles to spend an evening in the Y. M. C. A.—because they knew that somebody was on the job.

Another reason is that you don't have to knock, show a ticket, wiggle your finger or roll over and play dead to get in. You just walk in like you were there to foreclose a first mortgage on the place. A fellow new in the game sort of hesitated at the door of the place and said to a Y. M. Secretary, "Do I come right in, or what?"

"Aint my club," said the Secretary "suit yourself about it."

When you walk through the front door you don't run into a lecture hall, though there is one upstairs, and the odor that comes to your nose isn't the odor of sanctity. It's the smell of fried eggs. The cafeteria is the first thing you meet, and if you are wise you get acquainted with it and stay acquainted while you are in this locality, for it is the best and cheapest place to eat in town. I know because I tried several.

The most impressive thing about it is the complete absence of an ostentatious welcome. It's like finding a dollar on the sidewalk. You just help yourself and nobody says a word. You wander in and eat and wipe your mouth on your sleeve and hike upstairs and mess around on a piano or write a letter or play billiards or do as you dozone please. You are free. To be able to make a huge number of men feel perfectly free and unstrained and at home is quite some little accomplishment. I haven't had time to find out how it is done, but the next time I have a party at my house I'm going to try it on. It's the real thing in hospitality.

An Utter Pessimist.

"There's only one chance in seventeen billion for a mistake in finger prints." "That's enough to have it happen to me."

Mr. James Fletcher thinks the Greene County Fair isn't in it this year compared with an attraction which arrived at his home last night in the way of a fine boy. As Jim has a family of three girls and no boys he is feeling very proud over the arrival.

A petition is being circulated throughout the county asking the commissioners to submit to the voters November the question of building new court house.

Miss Edna and Brant Bell left this morning for a visit with their uncle, Rev. S. W. Bell and wife of Clyde, Ohio.

MEMORIAL HONORS NURSE WAR VICTIM

Memorial to Edith Cavell.

The photo shows the Edith Cavell memorial erected near Trafalgar square, London. Edith Cavell, a nurse, was executed by the Germans for alleged spy activities. Her murder made it plain that the Kaiser and his crew are nothing more than beasts. The designs for this memorial were done by Sir George Frampton, R. A. Critics call the result a splendid monument.

BE WITH THE WINNER

JUDGE HARVEY C. SMITH

Judge Harvey C. Smith, of Zanesville, O., looks like a sure winner for the nomination for Secretary of State at the Republican primary next Tuesday. Because of his wonderful success as judge of the juvenile court, he is known as the "Ben E. Lindsay of Ohio." His endorsement by the labor press all over the state and by the independent press of Southeastern Ohio, added to his wonderful record as a vote-getter, seem to justify the claims of his friends that his nomination means a landslide election.

LETTERS FROM OUR SOLDIERS

Letters for this column from Greene county's soldiers are solicited. No matter whether the letter is from a soldier in the training camp or from the battle trenches it is of interest, not only to his close friends but to the general public. Therefore if you receive a letter from a soldier and it contains interesting news pass it along to the newspaper and we will publish it so all his friends may enjoy it. Soldiers are also invited to write directly to the newspaper.

Xenia friends of Lieutenant Hivling Stokes will be interested in the following extracts from a letter recently received by his mother, Mrs. George Stokes, of East Church street: July 22nd, 1918.

Dear Mother:

I am wondering how you all are at home. We are admirably located here in fact, we have a regular old French chateau for our domicile. It is owned by a Prefect, and is certainly a most beautiful place, containing, as it does, about 300 acres, with several small lakes, large grass plots, vineyards and gardens. One of these pools is large enough and deep enough to swim in, so we get to take a plunge every evening. We do not, however, occupy the chateau, but are billeted in one of the barns, which is amply large and very clean, with plenty of ventilation.

Each battery is located in a different little village around here. We are about one-half mile from the nearest town and we have the best place of any of them. We had to hike about eight miles, full pack, after getting off the train, and this place certainly looked good to us.

The little French I learned at Denison comes in mighty handy, and I am far from being efficient as yet, still with the fundamentals, I don't believe it will take so very long to pick it up. All of the people here certainly treat us fine. They are just as nice, and accommodating as they can be, and will do almost anything for us.

We landed at Liverpool, which is the second largest shipping center in the world. The shipping yards and docks extend for about twenty-two miles along either side of the Mersey river. We stayed there only one night, at a rest camp; then went to Winchester, where we stayed two nights at a rest camp. From there, we went to Southampton, where we embarked for France. We had the novel experience of viewing the landscape through the door of a box car.

It is almost impossible to get any candy here, even in the large cities, so if you could send me some sweet chocolate, it would be greatly appreciated. I have not received any mail yet. Yesterday some special deliveries, addressed to Camp Upton, were delivered, so I suppose all of our mail will be coming soon.

Expect you are wondering just where we are, anyway, so I will elucidate. It's "somewhere in France," and that is as definite as I can tell you, and still get this posted by the censor. We have certainly been having a fine trip, seeing lots of country, and I am in the very best of health and spirits, and am enjoying myself thoroughly.

We all wear wrapped puttees, like the English, and have carried our helmets with us since the beginning of the trip. Will sleep tonight within one hundred yards of a bunch of Huns. They are prisoners, however. Hope you are all well.

With love, G. H. Stokes.

WILL BUILD RUBBER TIRE AT BALL PARK AND GIVE IT AWAY

A rubber tire, made on the field and given away after the game, will be the feature of the baseball game, Sunday afternoon between the Xenia Reserves and the team representing the Dayton Rubber Company, of Dayton.

At an added expense to the Reserve management, the Dayton concern is sending a machine to the local diamond and the employee-players will make a tire on the field before the game. After the contest, the tire will be given away to some lucky one in the audience.

Besides their tire-building privileges, the Rubbermen without stretching a point, can be said to have an elastic aggregation of ball tossers, who are quick on the rebound and full of pep all the time.

They have been playing great ball around Dayton and despite the elation the locals feel over winning the contest with the Aviators last Sunday, they are not letting over-confidence get the best of them in the coming affair.

Bob Spade, former Cincinnati Red, and veteran hurler, will pitch for the visitors, with Free on the mound for the locals.

'THE WIFE'

BY JANE PHELPS

Good-Byes.

Ruth chattered gayly with her aunt at breakfast. That Mrs. Claybourne was not quite pleased that she was going to marry Brian, she knew. But so long as that displeasure took no other form than cutting her off from spending money, Ruth did not worry about it. For, one who has always spent money recklessly knows nothing of its value.

Mrs. Claybourne had allowed Ruth her own way in regard to their wedding. It was no part of her plan to alienate her niece. So Ruth was to be married in the little church she had attended ever since she came to "The Terrace." The same old white-haired minister who had patted her on the head, then and said he hoped she would help her aunt forget her sorrow because of the death of her husband, was to marry her to Brian. There were to be no engraved invitations. Ruth herself had gone from house to house and invited the few whom she wished to come to the church, and to the wedding breakfast afterward. There were only a few—a dozen young people, and some old friends of Mrs. Claybourne's—perhaps twenty in all. Ruth laughed when she overheard one of the servants say:

"Dat Miss Hopkins' Eliza said dat Miss Ruth warn't having no kind of weddin' at all. She said she warn't invitin' nobody and that she was marryin' a pore man."

She was marrying a poor man, perhaps, but he wouldn't be poor very long! He had told her he wouldn't. And he couldn't be so VERY poor: he dressed nicely, and his uncle was a prominent man in the town. Ruth was clever, in many ways, but in others she was as ignorant as, when a child of ten, she had come to live with her wealthy aunt.

After breakfast she went upstairs and quietly went over the entire house, not missing a room.

"What yo all doin'?" Rachel asked. "I've got yo dress and the rest of yo things on the bed lak yo told me. Twelve o'clock comes mighty soon, missy Ruth." (Twelve o'clock was the hour of the wedding.)

The Dear Old House. "I'm saying good-bye to the rooms, Rachel. I'm going a long way and may not get back to visit for some time."

"It ain't dem rooms what is gwoin' to miss yo, honey; it am old Rachel and Miss Caliborn and all the rest of us uns."

"I know, Rachel but you will soon be with me. And Aunt Laura got married when she was young—much younger than I am. I am almost twentyone. She was only eighteen and she was happy too," she added, a wistful tone in her voice, "she told me she was,—that she was as happy happy until Uncle Clark died. If I ever have a boy, Rachel, I shall name him 'Clark.' It would please her so much. I haven't told her, but I made up my mind, years ago, that I would."

"You sho'ly is quare, missy Ruth—talkin' about namin' a baby," and old Rachel laughed and cried together as Ruth went into her aunt's room to talk, a few moments, before she put on the shimmering satin dress spread out upon the dainty lace-covered bed.

Mrs. Claybourne was sitting quietly by the window, the morning paper still unfolded in her lap. Her thoughts were sad, and she did not hear Ruth enter the room.

"Guess who it is?" Ruth said gayly, putting her hands over Mrs. Claybourne's eyes, then leaning over to kiss her before she took a chair beside her.

"Ruth, dear, you haven't much time. It is eleven o'clock."

"I know, but I wanted to talk a little. I shall be ready in time. Rachel has everything laid out for me. I know you don't like Brian, Aunt Laura."

"You are mistaken, Ruth, I DO like him. I simply do not believe he is the right man for you to marry."

Strong Ties.

"But Auntie, please don't stop loving me because I can't do as you want me to, will you? I just couldn't bear it if you did!"

"I shall never stop loving you, dear. You and my dear husband have been all I ever had to love. I shall be very lonely."

"I know, and that is what saddens me. You never said it before, but I have felt that your loneliness would be hard to bear, and it has been the only sad thought I have had, aside from thinking you did not like Brian. I don't care about the money one bit, Auntie. Anyway it is a man's place to take care of his wife, so Rachel says; and, of course, I know that Brian will always take good care of me. And now that I know you love me just the same as ever, I must run away. A bride must not be late to her own wedding, must she?" Ruth threw her arms around her aunt and kissed her fondly. "This is our REAL good-bye. The other will be before people."

For a few moments longer, Mrs. Claybourne sat quietly by the window. The paper had slipped to the floor unnoticed. Several times she wiped the tears from her eyes and whispered: "I shall be so lonely." Then, she called her maid, and carefully made herself attractive for the wedding of the child she was to lose. When she joined Ruth, for the short ride to the church she was the same calm, dignified woman she always had been. While Ruth, her cheeks flushed, her eyes shining, talked and laughed and cried a little all the way.

To Be Continued.

CHENEY NEIL GETS OVERLAND AUTOMOBILE

The handsome little Overland Club roadster, given away by the local lodge of Elks, was given to Cheney Neil, of the Grand Hotel, at the fair grounds, Friday afternoon.

A large crowd assembled on the race track when the car was given away, which was near the end of the afternoon's racing program, and the announcement of the lucky receiver of the auto was made by Starting Judge C. M. Leonard.

His Repose.

"I see ye have a new hired man. Erry. How is he doing?" "Resting considerable easier than the other one did, thank ye!" a trifle grimly replied honest Farmer Hornbeak.—Kansas City Star.

SERVICE FLAG DEDICATED BY XENIA MASONS

A service flag containing twenty-four stars, representing one-seventh of the total membership of the Masonic lodge of this city, was dedicated Friday, at a most impressive meeting.

The flag, which was the gift of the Masonic club to the Masonic lodge, was presented by Dr. A. C. Messenger, representing the club, and was accepted by Rev. H. J. Jewett on behalf of the lodge.

Following the flag presentation exercises, Congressman S. D. Fess delivered a splendid address concerning the war to an enthusiastic audience, which completely filled the large lodge room. Speaking in the same optimistic tone which marked his speech at the fair grounds, Friday morning, Dr. Fess pointed out that he felt sure that the world would see the war ended before the close of next year. He declared that the German man power is on the down grade, while the power of the allies is growing on all sides.

In most emphatic terms he declared that it is a crime for anyone to think of making peace now with Germany. At the present time Germany controls thousands and thousands of square miles of territory more than she had at the beginning of the war, and a peace now would leave her ten times more powerful than she was in 1914. Dr. Fess stands for war to a "knockout," and he urged his audience not to think of peace until it can be secured by completely crushing the autocratic military force of Germany.

It is the opinion of Dr. Fess that the supreme offensive of the allies will not be attempted until next year, when America's full force can be thrown into the balance, and after Germany has been forced to suffer the depression of another hard winter. In order to bring the American army to its full force, Dr. Fess stated that it is necessary to change the draft ages, to include men from 18 or 19 years of age to those 45 or 50 years of age.

From the younger men will be selected the fighting forces, he said, but he added that in his opinion no American boy will be sent overseas under the age of 20 years. From the older class it is not expected that a great number of fighting men will be secured, but the placing of these men in the draft will give the government the authority to force men to fight who refuse to work.

An interesting explanation of the Italian situation was given by the speaker. He outlined the difficulties which beset the path of the Italian government at the beginning of the war and reviewed the hardships suffered by the Italians on the battlefield, which on more than one occasion seemed about to crush her. She has now fully recovered from her early defeats and backed by her allies, can be expected to give a good account of herself during the remainder of the war, Dr. Fess declared.

The speaker in forceful terms stated that America should lose no time in declaring war on Bulgaria, and he pointed out the way for the allies to strike at Germany's rear door through that country.

In regard to Russia, the speaker said that a great problem remained to be worked out by the allies. He explained the manner in which Germany has gained control of a vast portion of that great country by intrigue, but he said that he did not believe Germany could ever gain control of the Russian man power.

Following Dr. Fess's address the audience sang "America," after which refreshments were served.

"There's too much fat on that beefsteak," said the customer. "A sign of its quality," replied the salesman. "You never complained of the foam on a glass of beer."

QUIET REIGNS AT FAIR GROUNDS AGAIN

When the last heat of the six heat event, the 2:15 pace, was run at the Greene County Fair Grounds, Friday afternoon, the annual fair was practically over.

Side shows and other exhibitors and concession men along the great midway began to move out Friday night, some of them going to Washington C. H., and some to Springfield. The Fayette county fair and the Clark county fair will both be held next week.

The fair this year was as big a success as usual, despite the fact that so many young men are away at war, and good crowds marked all four days of the annual event.

A number of new features added to the interest of the fair this year, and good racing marked the three days' program.
